To the Secretary of the American Education Society.

MY DEAR SIR,

The necessity that young men, who are preparing for the Ministry, should pursue a thorough course of study, especially of theological study, is a subject on which I am willing most fully to express my views, according to your request; and I can have no objection that these views should be made public, if it is your wish to make them so, through the Quarterly Register of the American Education Society. I only regret that the various engagements by which my time is engrossed, render it impossible for me, at present, to give that attention to the subject, which my conviction of its importance would, in other circumstances, induce me to bestow upon it. I have no doubt, however, that your readers will be disposed to regard with candor, any suggestions that I may offer on this subject; and especially that these suggestions will be thus regarded by my younger brethren in the ministry.

If I may be allowed to speak of my own personal experience, I would wish to make it admonitory to those who are coming after me. I entered on professional studies after a course of academical preparation, extended to nearly seven years, and pursued under as good advantages as the state of the country then allowed. This preparatory course was not interrupted by School teaching, a practice which most unhappily prevails of late, in some of our Colleges, to such an extent as virtually to reduce a four years' education to less than three, especially if we include the exhaustion of vital power under which a student must go on in College, who has devoted all his vacations to a most arduous employment. The infelicity of my case was, that my theological preparation, though acquired under the direction of a distinguished Divine and theological Instructor,* and continued for a longer period than was customary at the time, was much too short. When I came to enter on my work in a large country parish, and to learn, as I soon did, how inadequate was my stock of acquired knowledge, I was driven to extremities. Besides the weekly writing of sermons, and the endless routine of pastoral engagements, I must somehow find time for that professional and general reading, which I now saw to be indispensable, and lamented that I had not accomplished to a greater extent, before entering on my ministry. The consequence was, (and I hope others may profit by the mistake,) I resorted to a course of night studies, which in a few years made shipwreck of my constitution.

Since the period to which I have now referred, the course of events has been such as to create a strong demand, and every year increases this demand, for higher and higher qualifications in the Ministry. The inquisitive, and enterprising, and intelligent character of the age; the resources of learning perverted by the advocates of error; above all, the wide field of moral influence opening in our Western States, and the call for men to go to the heathen, who may be safely trusted in translating the Bible, and laying Christian foundations for centuries to come;—all these, and many other considerations have opened on the Church a new era, calling for augmented resources, in the moral and intellectual furniture of ministers. In accordance with these remarks, public sentiment has most distinctly declared itself, in the establishment of Theological Seminaries, and in the patronage they have received, from the most judicious men in the land. Before these measures were adopted, there had long been a gradual falling off from the ground occupied by the early Fathers of our churches, many of whom were distinguished scholars, especially in the literature of the sacred writings.

I should think myself especially unfortunate in the following remarks, if they should make the impression on the mind of any good man, that I would exalt intellectual furniture in ministers, at the expense of personal piety. Perhaps I cannot better guard against such an impression, and show the habitual feelings of my own mind on this subject, than by subjoining in a note a few sentences from a manuscript sermon, which I delivered in the Chapel of the Theological Seminary, in this place, some months ago.*

I hope this extract will show that it is not my habit to undervalue piety in the Ministry.

In urging the necessity of an extended course of theological study, one other suggestion seems proper, to guard against misapprehension of to cultivate the spirit of piety in our own hearts. When I remember the pioneers of the cross, trained up here for their sacred and self-denying work of gathering churches in our new settlements; and when I think of the Missionary stations among the heathen, occupied by the sons of this Seminary, I am cheered by the hope that God will bless it with his own gracious presence, and make it still the instrument of promoting his own cause. The Church expects, and has a right to expect, that we shall raise up devoted and holy men for her service. I would not say, by any means, that all our students should actually engage in Missions; but they should possess the spirit of Missions, or they cannot be useful, at this day, in any department of the Ministry.

Let profound learning be cultivated here. Let interpreters of the Bible, and theologians, and preachers, who are able men, go from these Halls annually. Christian learning is the heavy artillery of the Ministry, against the armies of the aliens. This too the church expects of us, and has a right to expect. But the church will not be satisfied with this. She demands that from year to year, not only learned and eloquent men, but men glowing with zeal for God, and the salvation of sinners, should go from this place. On this condition, the pious Simeons and Annas of the land, ‘praying to God alway, and waiting for the consolation of Israel,’ will pray for us;—a thousand closets will send up their supplications, in a cloud of incense, that God will bless this school of sacred learning. And when such men as HALL and FISK die, the church will know where to look for others to fill their places. But oh,—should the day come, when such a call of heaven should reach us, ‘Who will go to that post of self-denial?’—and there be none to answer, ‘Here am I;’—should the day come, when learning shall be the all absorbing business here, and personal religion be understood to be a subordinate concern, (and it will be so understood, if it is so.) then will the Church mourn; her confidence in this Seminary will be deservedly and irretrievably lost; and the finger of heaven will write on these walls, ‘The glory is departed.’”

* “We are under special obligations

my meaning. Nothing could be farther from my design, than to cast any reproach on those who, like myself, entered the Ministry, before the facilities which now exist for such a course of study, were provided. It is equally remote from my purpose to say, that every candidate for the Ministry, without regard to his age, and other circumstances, should pursue a three years' course of study in theology. But what I mean to say is, and the time in my opinion has come to say this very distinctly, that henceforward, such a course of study is short enough, as a general rule. If any one is providentially prevented from pursuing it, that should be submitted to as his calamity. I am the more confident in my opinions on this subject from the fact, that during twenty two years experience as an instructor of Theological students, sixteen of which have been passed in my present relations, I have heard not a few young men lament their own haste in entering the ministry, but not an individual have I known to intimate that he had spent too much time in preparatory studies.

But it is time to drop this prefatory matter, and come to the main point, why a thorough intellectual preparation for the sacred office is necessary.

When Paul says to Timothy that a bishop should not be a novice, there is a figurative allusion in the original word, that is very significant. Literally the expression is "not an infant." It denotes that want of knowledge or skill, which we see in a new born child, that would certainly fail of success, if set to accomplish any work requiring the strength and intelligence of a man. There is a secondary sense too, that is scarcely less pertinent. It refers to a tree or plant recently set in the earth, which has not had time to become rooted, and is easily disturbed by the wind or any external violence. The meaning is, that a Christian minister ought not only to be mature in religious experience, but to have a sound, well furnished understanding.

Both these requisites he needs, lest being inflated with pride, he fall into the condemnation of the devil. That stability of character which can resist temptation, and qualify a man to be a guide in the church, must come from fixed religious opinions, grounded on a thorough acquaintance with divine truth. The apostle, that he might be certainly understood on this subject, often exhorts Timothy to diligence in reading, and meditation, and study of the scriptures, the great store-house of divine knowledge; through which the minister might become furnished for his work.

In remarking on this subject then, I would advance no theories that are extravagant, none that are new,—none indeed that are not sanctioned by apostolic authority. Let any man (if in this age of light there is any man, who advocates the cause of clerical ignorance,) read the epistles to Timothy and Titus, and then answer this plain question;—did a Teacher of religion, who had the gift of inspiration to understand the scriptures, and the gift of tongues to preach; a Teacher too, born amid the scenery and customs described in the Bible, and familiar with the language in which important parts of it were written,—did he need the aid of study and reading to qualify him for his work? and can a man, who has not one of all these advantages, be qualified for the same work, without study? How is he to know what is in the Bible, till he has studied the Bible? and how can he study the Bible, so as to have, concerning what is peculiar in its language, local allusions, and usages, the knowledge requisite for a public Teacher, without much reading of other books? Does he claim to be an inspired man? Let him stand forth and prove his inspiration by working a miracle: Just as well may his hearers claim to be inspired, so as to have no need of him, or of any one, as a religious Teacher?

Now the positions, which I would take to show the connexion between intellectual furniture and success in a minister are these four;—a man must have knowledge himself, before he can teach others;—he must have capacity to learn, before he can acquire knowledge;—he must have time to learn; and he must have instruction. The first is self-evident. The second admits no diversity of opinion, except as to the degree of native talent, which is necessary to a minister. Concerning this too, all will agree thus far, that the highest powers of genius may find ample scope in this work; and that on the other hand, decided weakness of intellect is a disqualification. He that stands on middle ground, between these two limits,—he that has a fair average of native talent with other men, may with a good heart, and adequate culture, be a successful minister. Good sense he must have; but brilliant powers are by no means indispensable.

It is self evident too, that he must have time to learn, before he can hope for success in his work. Common sense decides so, in regard to all acquisitions, which are to be made by study. In the first schools of Europe, established for the two great professions, law and medicine, the period of study is three, four, and in some cases, five years, superadded to an academical education. In the same departments, three years of professional study is made a legal requisite, in different parts of our own country. But is the care of men's immortal interests a business, that demands less maturity of preparation, than that of their bodies or estates? Is the interpretation of the sacred oracles, and the preaching of the everlasting gospel, so trifling an affair, that it may be safely left to any novice, who chooses to undertake it? Plainly, he cannot be a successful teacher in the church of God, who has not had time to learn. The knowledge that he needs is to be gained, not by intuition, not by inspiration, not by any "royal road," but by patient, long continued study. Solomon has told him all the secret of gaining this knowledge; he must dig for it, as for hidden treasures.

Need I add that he must have instruction? The obvious necessity of this was felt by the fathers of New England, those pious and sagacious men, who founded colleges, with the primary view of raising up an educated ministry, for their descendants. And to these wise provisions, men of like spirit have added the endowment of Theological Seminaries, that the sons of the church, instead of rushing self taught into this work, might enjoy the best advantages of professional instruction.

But it is said, "how can a young man of ardent piety spend year after year in preparatory study, while there are so few religious teachers, and so many destitute churches, and perishing sinners around him? That young man ought to go at once to these starving souls with the bread of life." So, excellent men, and even ministers, have argued, and often remonstrated with the pious student, and perhaps have thrown him into serious perplexity as to his own duty. Now to relieve this perplexity, should he come to me for counsel, I would ask him,—Why did Christ delay the commencement of his ministry till he was thirty years of age? Was he not as well qualified as you to preach at twenty five? Were there no perishing sinners around him? Was there no lack of ministers then to teach the way of God in truth? Had you been in his place, you would have begun to preach, it seems, just so soon as you had happened to feel deeply the dreadful condition of sinners; and would have summoned to your aid, not twelve apostles, but twelve thousand. Are you then more wise than Christ? more benevolent than Christ to the souls of men?

Besides, is a young man of course qualified to be a religious teacher, because he is ardently pious? Then the wisest men, in every age, have been mistaken. Then Colleges, and Theological Seminaries, and Education Societies, are a useless incumbrance to the world. But if preparation is necessary, God has decided that these vacant churches and perishing sinners must wait, till the preparation is made by study, for it is not made now by miracles. And there is no hardship, on this supposition more than on the other, if piety were all that the churches should desire in ministers, still they must wait, for God to make pious men. For if all such men, who hope to enter the ministry, were taken from our Seminaries, and Colleges, and Academies too, and made preachers at once, the cry for more laborers would still come from every corner of the land.

Still some may urge by way of objection that facts, and the aspects of Providence, are against this reasoning. Ministers have been very successful with but little study; and the wants of the world are so urgent, that we must dispense with preparatory qualifications, except a good heart and good sense.

That such men as John Newton and Thomas Scott have been a great blessing to the church, it were as idle to doubt, as it is, that their usefulness would have been far more eminent, with an adequate early education. But see what is the result, if you try the principle assumed in the objection by common sense. A man of capacity and integrity, is a farmer, a skilful farmer; does it follow that, with all his good sense and knowledge of husbandry, he could manage a ship in a tempest? and if he should do it, would it therefore be safe to commit all the concerns of navigation to farmers? Another man is a skilful merchant, and knows the quality and price of every article he deals out to his customers; is he therefore qualified to deal out medicines to the sick? another is a skilful lawyer; but give him the surgeon's knife, and call him to perform an operation; are you sure that he would do it with success? I need not wait for an answer to such inquiries. Then take this farmer, this merchant, this lawyer, and suppose each to be ardently pious, if you please; and ask common sense whether he would, of course, be a successful interpreter of the Bible, or preacher of the Gospel?

If any one demands that I should tell, more particularly, how deficiency in theological knowledge will hinder a preacher's success, I answer,—In the first place, his public instructions will fail to interest intelligent hearers. Some such hearers he will have, in this age of mental activity; when reading and thinking are so customary, even among common men. Should they be satisfied for a few weeks or months, they will ultimately come to perceive, that his sermons are trite and feeble in thought. This result is quite certain, if he is only a common man, with common efforts.

Or, in the second place, if he aims to retrieve the past deficiencies of his education, by great and special efforts, in his preparations to preach, while, at the same time, he sustains the great, and various, and arduous duty of his office, he is a dead man; he will sink into hopeless infirmity, or a premature grave.

Or, in the third place, if he attempts to bring up all arrears, by incessant study, while he saves his life by neglect of pastoral duties, though he should become a tolerable preacher, he is a dead man in another respect; there will be a sad failure in the amount of his usefulness.

Facts are full of instruction on this subject. Not a few young men of bright promise, who might have become champions of the truth, have been so impatient to hasten into the ministry, that they have fatally blighted their own prospects; and instead of attaining to distinguished success, have scarcely reached the point of mediocrity. The minister now, whose maxim is to expect little things, and attempt little things, mistakes the day in which he lives. What was knowledge, in the thirteenth century, is ignorance now. What was energy then, is imbecility and stupidity now. As was said in another case, it becomes not our sacred profession, in this period of intellectual progress, to remain like the ship that is moored to its station, only to mark the rapidity of the current that is sweeping by. Let the intelligence of the age outstrip us, and leave us behind, and religion would sink, with its teachers, into insignificance. Ignorance cannot wield this intelligence. Give to the Church a feeble ministry, and the world breaks from your hold; your main spring of moral influence is gone.

Go on then, my dear Sir, in the arduous and exalted work to which you are devoted. God grant you success in the noble enterprize of multiplying able and holy ministers of his truth. It is a cause for which good men have prayed and will pray, without ceasing. It is a cause on which God has smiled, and will smile, with approbation.

Very sincerely your friend and brother,

E. PORTER.

Theol. Sem. Andover, Dec. 1828.

THE IMPORTANCE OF AN ENLIGHTENED AND VIGOROUS EFFORT IN THE CAUSE OF CHRIST.*

The government of God, as exhibited in the natural world, presents the indissoluble connexion which exists between antecedents and consequents. Such are the laws of nature, that we are not left to form our opinion from mere conjecture, what will be the result of a given cause. This remark is applicable not only to the material Universe, but to those laws also which govern the mind. Every great political change in our world, instead of resulting from fortuitous events, has been the legitimate effect of causes brought to act upon the minds of men. Hitherto this world, for the most part, has been governed by a few master spirits. And how has this been done? By seizing evidently upon the known

* It may be proper to remark, that this piece was delivered, as an address, at the Commencement of the Theological Seminary, Auburn, in August last. This circumstance will explain the writer's allusions to subjects of a local character, and being kept in mind, will enable the reader to peruse the whole with more advantage. When the spirit of this communication shall animate all who are coming forward into the sacred ministry, the annals of the church will tell of still greater and more glorious triumphs of truth and benevolence.

principles of human nature, and presenting to the mind such motives, as influence to action. Nor do these men relinquish their favorite schemes, where the bare presentation of motive proves unavailing. Acting with steady regard to their grand object, they accompany argument with an importunity and pathos, which not only influence the judgment, but move the energies of the soul. Hence we see that every illustrious achievement, performed by the agency of man, has been the result of vigorous effort.

What but the unexampled fortitude and perseverance of Peter the Great established the government—extended the territories—and gave permanence to the gigantic empire of Russia? Trace too the history of the noted French emperor, crushing thrones and sceptres beneath his feet—urging his frightful course across the Continent of Europe; and we have an illustration of the same principle, that vigorous measures, in any cause, whether good or bad, cannot fail to produce great results. For twelve hundred years we have seen one of the fairest portions of our globe blasted by the efforts of a single man. Whence is it, that the Arabian prophet has so long riveted his falsehoods,—and held his cruel sway over so extensive a portion of the human family? Not surely because his pretended revelations were deserving of credit; nor because his despotism did not merit the execration of all. But we account for his influence, from the simple fact, that he adapted his measures to the end he wished to accomplish. Take for example also the case of Peter the Hermit. A more eminent instance of the influence of an individual was never perhaps witnessed. With neither fame nor resources, this enthusiastic monk conceived the bold enterprise of arousing Europe to march to Palestine, and rescue the holy land from the sacrilege of infidelity. Having himself performed a pilgrimage to the sacred sepulchre, he points out to his astonished countrymen the untold abuses poured on the christian name by the unprincipled Saracen. With a zeal which became a worthier cause, he urges all to fly to the holy combat, and exterminate the ungodly foe. And what was the effect? All Europe was in motion. Its moral fabric was convulsed. Noblemen, and artizans, priests, and peasants hastened with enthusiasm to the field of imagined glory. The storm of public feeling was raised, and neither reason nor authority could guide its course. Under the cross-spangled banner there was a tremendous rush of the European nations, bearing onward no less than six millions, eager to share the honours of these days of Chivalry. Nor were they disheartened by the abounding obstacles which met them on every hand; "Onward, exterminate the infidel" was the cry, until there marshalled no less than seven hundred thousand on the plains of Asia.

Now in view of the fact, that such wonderful effects are accomplished by the exertions of fanatics, and those who address themselves to the depraved passions of men: why, we ask, may not moral and religious motives be brought to bear on the mind, which shall produce effects on the cause of Christ, more extensive—more glorious in their results, than all the splendid achievements of which the men of this world can boast? Decisive action we see is essential to the accomplishment of great results. Causes in the moral world, no less than in the natural, must ever be proportioned to the effects to be produced. On this principle, what, I ask, has been done to justify the expectation, that God, through the scanty means provided by his people, is speedily to subdue to the obedience of faith, this apostate province of his Empire? O let us not talk of victory, since all that has been done scarce bears a resemblance to the hum of preparation, which precedes the day of battle. Too long has the church slept under the preposterous belief, that God would convert the nations, without their co-operation. So thought not the apostles, when they bore the cross of Christ into heathen countries, and breasted the storm, which the combined hatred of an apostate world raised against them. So thought not the reformers, when they girded on the panoply of heaven—unmasked the abominations of Antichrist—shook the Papal throne to its base—and bid an enslaved world behold once more the pure light of the Gospel.

To see more distinctly the importance of vigorous effort, we have only to compare the present with the past,—contemplate the facilities which invite to effort,—and the dangers to be apprehended, if these efforts are not made.

Fifty years since, and what but one dark unbroken cloud rested upon all the Pagan world? Where was found the fervent—the heaven-piercing prayer—the self-denying effort, for the salvation of benighted and perishing idolaters? But the thrilling command of a risen Saviour, has at length pierced the heart of here and there a pilgrim to Zion. Many a dark and Pagan region, surrounded by the munitions of a sanguinary despotism, has already been invaded. The strong holds of Paganism are crumbling. Systems of error venerable for their antiquity are abandoned and despised. The savage of the wilderness has been tamed—the Hottentot enlightened,—while the dark picture of human wretchedness has been brought to light, by researches made on heathen territories. We rejoice that we may witness the glorious results, which have attended these exertions in our own, and in foreign lands. It has been computed that no less than fifty thousand, within the last half century have been rescued from the darkness of Paganism. But by whom has all this been effected? It has mostly been accomplished by a few of the pious poor. Among all the enlightened christians in Christendom, not one out of fifty, has scarcely done any thing: and even among those who have professed to embark in the benevolent enterprises of the day, probably not one in five hundred has done to the extent of his ability. Since then we have witnessed such signal results, and that too from a mere fraction of Christendom, what might we not expect from an enlightened and vigorous effort by all the friends of the Redeemer? It requires no nice calculation to show that the moral power brought to bear upon the cause of Christ, may with perfect ease to God's people be increased an hundred fold.

The facilities also which now invite to effort are of the most encouraging character. Long have many of the Eastern nations been held in ignominious servitude by Pagan, Papal, and Mahomedan powers. But the golden age of these powers has long since passed by: and while we look forward with confidence to their downfall, we rejoice that we already behold the rapid wane of Mahomet's power; while Popery has long since received its death wound. We have only to glance our eye over the world, and we see that all the political revolutions for the last thirty years have been but so many preparatory steps for the triumphant spread of the Gospel. A spirit of free inquiry has gone forth through the nations, which no combination of human power can ever quench. There is a movement in the civilized world, which indicates the approach of some mighty moral revolution. The Press, that engine of intelligence, hitherto trammeled in some countries, is now bursting from its restraints. The tide of public feeling, in favour of humane sentiments is rapidly rising, and we trust will ere long sweep away the last relic of oppression and barbarity.

Among the encouragements which invite to effort, none deserves such prominence, as the success of those benevolent institutions, which have already become the glory of our age. These, like so many gushing springs, are destined, we believe, to water the parched deserts of our world, and clothe them in the verdure of Eden. The Church possesses an untold amount of moral power;—her means are adequate to the exigencies of the age, and nothing but vigorous efforts are requisite to move the world. But it is no less important that our efforts should be enlightened, than that they be vigorous. In moving forward the engines of our holy artillery, we need the concentrated wisdom of those who in divine Providence are appointed to lead on "the embattled hosts of God's elect:" yea more, we need the unerring Spirit of truth to guide and sanctify every effort. Injudicious measures will prove weapons in the hands of a taunting world. The spies of the enemy with an eagle's eye scrutinize every effort, which is directed against the kingdom of darkness, and neither groundless insinuations, nor vile detraction are wanting to prostrate the labor and influence of the Lord's anointed. While we speak therefore of the means within reach of the Church, let us remember that the Enemy of all righteousness is far from being destitute of resources. In proportion as his influence is curtailed, so will be his madness to maintain his throne. The efforts of this mighty Prince proclaim that his empire will not be wrested from his grasp, without a desperate struggle.

There was never a time which so loudly called for effort,—a time so favorable to push the conquest of the Cross. Hence in relaxing effort, or acting merely on the defensive, we have reason to apprehend alarming consequences. Why then, at this auspicious and critical era should we not rise at once to an unparalleled vigor of enterprise, the glorious results of which would issue in the splendors of millennial day.

To say nothing of Pagan and other darkened nations, we have only to regard the critical state of our own country, and we see the immeasurable importance of the effort here contemplated. I need not say that we have arrived at a crisis in the history of this Republic, on which is suspended our weal or wo!

"There is a tide in the affairs of men,
"Which taken at its flood leads on to fortune,
"Neglected, all is lost."

The time has arrived and the momentous question will soon be decided. Shall the institutions of heaven be blotted out,—shall the bonds which bind man to his Maker be sundered,—and all the bright hopes of our country's glory be dashed forever? or shall the Church rise in the strength of God, and break through the mighty barrier of an enslaving, corrupted, public sentiment? This is our only alternative. There is a spirit abroad in our land more threatening in its consequences, than the famine—the pestilence—and all the dread artillery of war;—a spirit which demands unlimited indulgence, which seeks to break down every thing that is holy, and would sweep from creation the last hope of a sinking world. What period in our country's history, has been more distinctly marked, with the struggling exertions of infidel and ungodly men, to pour contempt upon the laws of heaven—and to poison youthful minds with sentiments coined only in hearts vengeful and dark as their own? Our infant Republic is in danger of becoming an infidel giant, at whose feet, all the arrows of truth shall fall powerless. What says fact upon this point? Let those clubs of infidelity, and other associations of the wicked, in our populous cities answer. In some parts of our country the grossest forms of wickedness prevail: and even in our own state a combination exists, which, if successful in its efforts, will sweep away the barriers of virtue, and bring our country to what infidel France once was—reeking in blood—and scathed by the blighting curse of an avenging God. Let the institutions of Jehovah be despised—his name profaned—his holy Sabbath, that mighty pillar in his moral kingdom, be prostrated, and our liberty is gone! Tyrants from afar may rejoice in our ruin—while over every valley and mountain in our land shall echo the dirge of our downfall. I repeat it, the crisis has come, when a bold, decided, enlightened, and vigorous effort must be made, lest this threatening tide, more dreadful than Vesuvius' lava, shall sweep its desolating flood across the loveliness of our heritage.

The glory of God demands this effort. When vice and irreligion are lifting their fearless heads, and with unblushing effrontery, sounding their shrill clarion, and waving their dark banner, shall the sentinels on Zion's watch-tower forbear to sound in deepest tones the trump of God,—and awake the slumbering armies of Israel? When against the cause of Christ is arrayed the malice of an ungrateful world;—when infidelity with its watchful eye is prowling about the fold of Zion; let not the friends of Zion's King be slow to repel the enemy and guard the precious lambs of Jesus.

In view then of the results which never fail to attend enlightened and vigorous efforts;—in view of the facilities now afforded to establish the claims of heaven, or sow the seeds of impiety; in view also of the peculiar and trying crisis, which the history of this and other countries now exhibits, we believe the providence of God imperiously calls for a strenuous,—a mighty effort, such as the world has never witnessed. Let but the divine glory—and the deliverance of a world in bondage become the all-absorbing object—the concentrating point of holy enterprise; and then, in the bright vision of faith, we behold the church triumphant—her enemies confounded. Then with thrilling emotions, we anticipate a participation in that ceaseless anthem of the redeemed throng—when ours shall be the joy of those, who have contributed their influence in hastening this grand consummation.

UNION OF AGRICULTURAL AND MECHANICAL LABOR WITH STUDY IN ACADEMIES.

The experiments which have been made on this subject prove, that it is practicable to combine labor with study, without retarding literary progress, and with decided advantage to body and mind. No one who has watched the operations of those institutions which have been formed within a few years past, upon this plan, can doubt that a student, who feels disposed, may even defray a considerable part of his expenses by the avails of his labor, and yet, take no more time from his studies, than is wanted to preserve a vigorous constitution, and to promote intellectual energy. Whatever difficulties exist in the way of introducing systems of agricultural and mechanical exercise into those institutions which have been long established, and which have been conducted upon other principles, facts show, that it is easy to make such systems a part of the routine of every day duties in other Seminaries, and especially in Academies. In the "Christian School" at Dexter, Maine, it is provided in the Constitution, that "every teacher and Scholar shall work at least four hours every day, when able, in some employ suited to his health." The Maine Wesleyan Seminary, at Readfield, has a farm and mechanic work shop connected with it, and many of the students pay the whole or part of the expense of board and tuition, by laboring every afternoon. A similar experiment has been made with success, at Whitesborough, N. Y. in the Oneida Academy. The trustees state, that the income of the farm exceeded the first year, by $150, the expense of its management, and the board of the students. Similar Academies are about to be established in the vicinity of Philadelphia, in New Jersey, and in other parts of the country.

But why is it necessary to restrict these important advantages to new Institutions? Why not connect them with every flourishing academy? The reasons which apply in one place, apply universally; and something must be done speedily, on an extensive scale, or the interests of education will suffer, the lives of many talented young men will be sacrificed, and the church will be deprived of the services of some of her most promising candidates for the ministry.

Let a farm and a work shop be added to every one of our most respectable and useful academies. Let them be placed under the superintendance of an experienced and faithful man, who may, at the same time, act as steward, and open a commons for the board of students. Let all, who desire it, be admitted upon condition of spending a portion of every day, say three or four hours every afternoon in labor, either in the field or in the work shop, according to the directions which they may receive from the Superintendent, and for this service, let them receive board, and where it can be afforded tuition, also.

The time is at hand when such institutions will be in greater demand than any others. The Education Societies of the country will seek them, as the most suitable places for the education of those under their care; since here they will need less aid, from others, and enjoy important facilities for helping themselves, without loss of time, or health, and without being compelled to resort to the practice of keeping school for so large a part of their preparatory course, and thus of materially abridging their opportunities for a thorough education. Such institutions will be sought by indigent young men themselves, and they will be fostered with lively interest by the community. Fifty such academies are wanted, in the United States, at this moment; and it will not be many years, it is hoped before there will be double that number.

A Discourse delivered by Alva Woods D. D. at his Inauguration as President of Transylvania University.—Lexington, Ky. 1828.

We are glad to see that sentiments so just and enlightened, as those contained in this discourse, and in several addresses which we have seen from President Lindsley, of Nashville, are disseminated among our brethren of the West. They cannot fail to produce much valuable fruit.

President Woods very properly takes occasion to illustrate the influence of intellectual and moral education; its generous influence on Society; its bearing on the three learned professions, and through them on the great interests of this country. Many of his remarks are judiciously adapted to the circumstances of the people whom he was called to address. Appended to the discourse is a list of the officers of Transylvania University, a statement of the course of Study, &c. We learn that seventy students have been admitted to the Institution since its reorganization, and that there are forty attached to the preparatory school.

A sermon delivered at the Dedication of the New Chapel in Williams College, Sept. 2, 1828, by Edward D. Griffin. D. D. President.

This sermon contains a detailed history of the College. The venerable President dwells with much feeling upon the revivals of religion which have blessed the Institution, and upon the distinguished part which its sons have taken in originating and extending the spirit of missions. Gordon Hall, and Mills the friend of Africa, or rather the friend of man, were educated at this Seminary. The whole number of graduates from Williams College is six hundred and seventy three. More than one third have become preachers of the gospel. The present prospects of the Institution are encouraging.

Map of Palestine, published by the Massachusetts Sabbath School Union.

We can recommend this map as a valuable assistant to all who are engaged in Sabbath School and Bible Class instruction. All the important divisions of the Holy Land, the principal towns, and interesting individual objects are marked with great distinctness and prominence. The elaborate and beautiful map of Ingraham was intended for a different object,—to satisfy the inquiries of the accurate biblical student, and for the use of all who have the time and means to investigate fully the Geography of Palestine. The map of the S. S. Union will accomplish, we believe, a most valuable purpose. It comes at the moderate price of one dollar.

A Gazetteer of Massachusetts, by Jeremiah Spofford, M. D. 1828.

The author of this Gazetteer has evidently been unwearied in his investigations, and judicious in the selection of his materials. We hope that he will be amply remunerated for his labor, which, in the nature of the case, must be extreme. There are omissions and mistakes unquestionably; but no one, who is at all acquainted with the difficulty of investigations of this sort, will think it strange, or worthy of reproof. A valuable map of the state is prefixed.

We learn that the Rev. Gardner B. Perry of Bradford, Mass. is engaged in preparing a Gazetteer of the Literary Institutions in this country. It will embrace an account of Colleges, Academies, distinguished Private Schools, &c. which have existed, or do now exist; the systems of education adopted; all important improvements; the success of the various plans, so far as it can be ascertained; and at the close, a general survey of common School Education in the several States. Such a work, properly executed, will be invaluable. We hope that the author will persevere in his undertaking. The subject is one, which he has long regarded with the eye of an intelligent observer, as well as with the advantage of much personal experience. A serious difficulty, in prosecuting such a work, lies in collecting the necessary materials.—Travelling agents of benevolent Societies, might, perhaps, in some instances, be of service in transmitting important printed or other documents, and they would no doubt cheerfully take charge of such as might be entrusted to them.

Second Annual Report of the Directors of the New Hampshire Branch of the American Education Society. Rev. Charles B. Hadduck, Secretary.

This report possesses a value which renders it deserving of a much wider circulation than the limits of the Branch Society, on whose account it was specially prepared. It is the clear, powerful reasoning of a mind thoroughly disciplined and stored with solid learning, on a subject which we are happy to see is attracting deep interest, among the friends of an enlightened Christian ministry. We subjoin the following extract from the report, in which the same sentiments are maintained, that are so forcibly and satisfactorily illustrated by President Porter, in the present number of the Quarterly Register and Journal.

"We know, that knowledge which tends not to fit men for usefulness, is vain and will vanish away. But we know, too, that no great good can be done, in this age especially, without thorough discipline, and perfect control of the mental powers. There must be mind, or there can be no influence. And there can be no mind, of an efficient and useful character, without patient and long continued training of the faculties—without intimate and persevering communion with other minds—of the living or the dead. Mental exercise produces mental strength, and prepares for manly exertion. To mental exercise the motives, and the only motives, are found in suggestions from without—from material nature, or from other minds. When the student reads a book, understandingly and thoroughly, the effect of it is to conduct his mind through all the successive states of perception, of reasoning, of imagination, and of emotion, through which the mind of the author passed in the composition of it. And the great use of this effect is, that, like the effect of swinging the sledge on the arm of the smith, it produces new vigor and susceptibility of exertion, communicates the well known power of habit, the habit of mental action; a power like that acquired by the smith, susceptible of application to any purpose for which it may be needed. From every effort which the mind makes to take in the conceptions of the poet, to embrace the conclusions of the philosopher, or to apprehend the distinctions of the logician and the philologer, it is training, it is accumulating power for efficient action in the service of mankind. Nor has invention yet discovered any other mode of improving the mental powers. If the effect be produced, if the powers of the mind be really developed, and in due proportion, no matter how short or how easy the process. But let us beware, lest in abridging the process we fail of the end. The time may come, for ought we know, when the truths of science may be ground out by machines, improved on the concentric circles and wheels of Lully and Kircher, the cylinders of our own enthusiastic Grammarian, or the equally ingenious and more modest contrivance of the professor of Lagado. Ideas may be forced into the mind by wind or steam; but no device has yet been conceived or attempted, by which intellect can be developed, or a single power of the mind strengthened and perfected without ideas. And until new modes of acquiring them are discovered, it cannot be unwise to employ the old ones, at whatever expense of time and patience.

We have dwelt, it may be thought, too long on this topic. But it has seemed to us worthy of particular attention from the clergy of this time, and from all engaged in advancing men to the ministry. In no class of the community is the characteristic action of the age more strikingly exhibited, than in the ministers of the Gospel. From the time the youth indulges the purpose of preaching, the objects which occupy his thoughts are the great charitable enterprises of the day; the production of effects palpable, describable and immediate; influences somewhere, at home or abroad, which shall mark his success, and go to magnify the animating and imposing triumphs of Christianity, spread out on the pages of our Religious Magazines, Reports and Newspapers. Practical and immediate effect is ever in his view. As soon as he is settled his church and parish, too, under the influence of the same spirit, are calling upon him for an amount of parochial duty, which seems to leave no time for study, and scarcely time for the most hasty and imperfect weekly preparation for the pulpit.

"Let the standard of intellectual character in the ministry, and of theological knowledge be depressed, let the attractions from the study be multiplied and strengthened for a few generations, and the consequences are obvious—Learning will again be disesteemed in the church; thorough preparation for the ministry will be neglected; and if history deceive us not, ignorance of God, and insensibility on the subject of eternal life will return to brood over the world for another thousand years. The tide of benevolence will ebb; the streams of charity will stagnate; another Wickliffe and another Luther must be raised up by the fostering hand of knowledge, and the inspiration of God to wake the world from another sleep of ages.

"The consequences we deprecate are not, indeed, in their nature sudden. They are not to be expected in our day. But so surely as the standard of learning and theological research is depressed among the clergy, the clergy will sink towards insignificance and contempt. So certainly as the amount of mind in the service of the church is diminished, the great results of mental energy will dwindle away. If the intelligence and judgment which have been applied to the explanation and application of the truths of the Bible, are lessened and disesteemed, the reasonableness and beauty and power of those truths will disappear. Open the volume of history, and you will find, that the Bible has reflected upon every age the character of the clergy of that age. Unchangeable, indeed, it has itself remained from generation to generation: but unchanged it has not appeared to men. Like the sun it has been fixed, an unfading, unvarying light in the moral firmament. But its effulgence, like that of the sun also, poured upon the world by an ever changing medium, and reflected from ever changing objects, has exhibited in succession, all the hues which light can assume."

"The evils on which we have dwelt it is the direct tendency of Education Societies to prevent. They aim not only to multiply the preachers of righteousness, but to give them effectual aid in obtaining a competent preparation for their work, to give them an impulse, at the outset, which shall carry them forward in the pursuit of knowledge against all the counteracting influence of the spirit of the time, and the pressing calls of active life.

"Doubtless the increased and increasing demand for ministerial labor will call forth supplies of some kind. If intelligent and qualified preachers cannot be had, the ignorant and incompetent will be employed. The call of an excited people for religious privileges and spiritual guidance will, to some extent, and in some manner be answered. It is in no small degree in the power of Education Societies to say to what extent and in what manner this call shall be answered. Could we train and send forth yearly, one hundred thorough bred and right minded clergymen, we should not only, in the best manner, prepare for usefulness so many individuals, but we should set up here and there over the land so many models of the clerical character, to show the people what Pastors should be, and what Pastors may be had to break to them the bread of life, and to guide the feet of their children in the paths of salvation. * * * Who then shall tell the blessings, which it is in our power to confer on our country, in all time to come, by doubling and trebling this number?"

MISCELLANEOUS.

ADVICE OF REV. SAMUEL PEARCE TO A PIOUS STUDENT.

The following letter was written by the eminently devoted Samuel Pearce, Baptist minister in England, to a young man who was about to enter Bristol academy, and who had applied to him for advice, how he should best improve his time. It may be read, and the directions given may be reduced to practice, with great profit, by all who are engaged in a course of preparatory studies for the ministry.

Birmingham, Nov. 13, 1798.

MY DEAR M—,

I can only confess my regret at not replying to yours at a much earlier period, and assure you that the delay has been accidental, and not designed. I feel the importance of your request for advice.***

At present, the following rules appear of so much moment, that were I to resume a place in any literary establishment, I would religiously adopt them as the standard of my conduct:—First, I would cultivate a spirit of habitual devotion. Warm piety connected with my studies, and especially at my entrance upon them, would not only assist me in forming a judgment on their respective importance, and secure the blessing of God upon them; but would so cement the religious feeling with the literary pursuit, as might abide with me for life. The habit of uniting these, being once formed, would, I hope, be never lost; and I am sure that, without this, I shall both pursue trivial and unworthy objects, and those that are worthy I shall pursue for a wrong end.—Secondly, I would determine on a uniform submission to the instructions of my preceptor, and study those things which would give him pleasure. If he be not wiser than I am, for what purpose do I come under his care? I accepted the pecuniary help of the Society on condition of conforming to its will; and it is the society's will that my tutor should govern me.—My example will have influence: let me not, by a single act of disobedience, or by a word that implicates dissatisfaction, sow the seeds of discord in the bosom of my companions.—Thirdly, I would pray and strive for the power of self-government, to form no plan, to utter not a word, to take no step under the mere influence of passion. Let my judgment be often asked, and let me always give it time to answer. Let me always guard against a light or trifling spirit; and particularly as I shall be amongst a number of youths, whose years will incline them to the same frailty.—Fourthly, I would in all my weekly and daily pursuits observe the strictest order. Always let me act by a plan. Let every hour have its proper pursuit; from which let nothing, but a settled conviction that I can employ it to better advantage, ever cause me to deviate. Let me have fixed time for prayer, meditation, reading, languages, correspondence, recreation, sleep, &c.—Fifthly, I would not only assign to every hour its proper pursuit; but what I did, I would try to do it with all my might. The hours at such a place are precious beyond conception, till the student enters on life's busy scenes. Let me set the best of my class ever before me, and strive to be better than they. In humility and diligence, let me aim to be the first.—Sixthly, I would particularly avoid a versatile habit. In all things I would persevere. Without this I may be a gaudy butterfly, but never, like the bee, will my hive bear examining. Whatever I take in hand, let me first be sure I understand it, then duly consider it, and if it be good, let me adopt and use it.

To these, my dear brother, let me add three or four things more minute, but which I am persuaded will help you much.—Guard against a large acquaintance while you are a student. Bristol friendship, while you sustain that character, will prove a vile thief, and rob you of many an invaluable hour.—Get two or three of the students, whose piety you most approve, to meet for one hour in a week for experimental conversation and mutual prayer. I found this highly beneficial, though, strange to tell, by some we were persecuted for our practice!—Keep a diary. Once a week, at farthest, call yourself to an account: What advances you have made in your different studies; in divinity, history, languages, natural philosophy, style, arrangement; and amidst all, do not forget to inquire, Am I more fit to serve and to enjoy God than I was last week?

TO MINISTERS.

"Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season."

Several years ago a vessel, which was blessed with a pious chaplain, and was bound to a distant part of the world, happened to be detained by contrary winds, over Sabbath, at the Isle of Wight. The chaplain improved the opportunity to preach to the inhabitants. His text was, "Be clothed with humility." Among his hearers was a thoughtless girl, who had come to show her fine dress, more than to be instructed. The sermon was the means of her conversion. Her name was Elizabeth Walbridge, the celebrated DAIRYMAN'S DAUGHTER, whose interesting history, drawn up by the late Rev. Legh Richmond, has been printed and translated in various languages, and circulated widely throughout the christian world with spiritual benefit to hundreds and thousands. What a reward is this for a single sermon preached "out of season?"

A distinguished friend of Africa, when asked how it was possible to raise nearly two millions of slaves in the United States to the condition of christian freemen, replied—"This is the way; Let all the friends of the cause GO TO WORK, KEEP TO WORK, HOLD ON, AND NEVER GIVE UP."

Last sentences in the Journal of Henry Martyn.

"I sat in the orchard and thought with sweet comfort and peace of my God; in solitude—my company, my friend, and comfort. O when shall time give place to Eternity! When shall appear that new heaven and new earth wher-in dwelleth righteousness! There—there shall in no wise enter in any thing that defileth; none of that wickedness that has made men worse than wild beasts—none of those corruptions that add still more to the miseries of mortality, shall be seen or heard of any more."

Dying counsel of Pliny Fisk to his missionary Brethren.

Live near to God, dwell in love, and wear out in the service of Christ.

STATISTICAL REGISTER

OF RELIGIOUS DENOMINATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES FOR JAN. 1829.

The following list of ministers, containing the names of the churches with which they are severally connected, has been prepared for occasional reference, as well as for general information. It is as complete, as the documents in our possession enable us to give. The names of vacant Churches are not mentioned; but, the number of such Churches, and the number of communicants, or members in all the Churches as reported to their respective ecclesiastical bodies, will be found annexed. Should the patronage given to the Quarterly Register and Journal be such as to justify the expense, a more full and complete list will be prepared at the commencement of future years. For authority, it is our invariable rule to refer, whenever it can be done, to the printed and public statements of the different religious denominations.

CONGREGATIONALISTS OF NEW-ENGLAND.

Explanatory Note. Under this head are included those only, who are denominated orthodox, or evangelical Congregationalists; and of these, we are necessarily limited, by our documents, to those ministers and churches who are in connexion with the General Conference of Maine, the General Association of New Hampshire, the General Convention of Vermont, the General Association of Massachusetts, the General Association of Connecticut, and the Evangelical Consociation of Rhode Island. There are, in some of the New England States, orthodox ministers and churches of the Congregational denomination, who are not thus connected. Not having however the means of forming an accurate list of these, we choose to defer any enumeration of them, for the present. There are a few Congregational ministers and churches in other parts of the United States. But, for the same reason, they will be omitted. It may be remarked, generally, that the statistics published by Congregationalists are less accurate, and less complete, than those of most other denominations.

 The ministers, whose names are in Italics, are Scribes or Clerks of the several distinct associations or conferences, where they occur. S. S. denotes Stated Supply.

VI. Evangelical Consociation of Rhode Island.

Meeting, at East Greenwich, on the second Tuesday of June, 1829.

We are unable to present a complete statistical view of this Ecclesiastical Body; but from such information as we possess, we give the following list of congregational ministers and churches in the State. They are all, we believe, except the first, connected with the Consociation.

James Wilson, Providence.	Francis Wood, S.S. East Greenwich.
T. T. Waterman, do. Richmond st.ch.	Oliver Brown, South Kingston.
Isaac Lewis, Bristol.	— King, S.S. Tiverton.
Wm. Patten, D. D. Newport, 1st ch.	— Patrick, S.S. Barrington.
Wm. T. Torrey, do. 2d ch.	— Barker, S.S. Slatersville.
Emerson Payne, Little Compton.

COMMITTEES

GENERAL SUMMARY.

We have before stated that the documents from which our information is taken, are incomplete. We have no returns from some important districts. A number of ministers and churches, probably from fifty to one hundred, are not associated with either of the Ecclesiastical bodies mentioned above; while there are other ministers, who are employed as public functionaries, in connexion with Colleges, Seminaries, and benevolent Societies, who are without pastoral charge, and who, for these reasons, are not so uniformly enumerated, as Pastors.

Making a reasonable allowance for these deficiencies, we give the following estimate of Orthodox Congregationalists in New England, (not including of course Unitarians,) as being nearest to the truth, which our present means of information enables us to furnish.

Ministers, 800. Vacant Churches, 250. Communicants 115,000.

Of the ministers, about seventy were formerly assisted, in a greater or less degree, in obtaining an education for the ministry, by the American Education Society.

PRESBYTERIANS OF THE UNITED STATES.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church contains sixteen Synods, and Ninety Presbyteries. Meeting on the third Thursday in May, 1829, at Philadelphia. Rev. EZRA STILES ELY, D. D. Stated Clerk, No. 144 South Second St., Philadelphia.

Explanatory note. The following list is prepared, chiefly, from the Statistical Tables and Presbyterial Register, printed with the minutes of the General Assembly for 1828. Where recent and more correct information has been received, we have inserted it. The ministers having a pastoral charge, are separated from those who are employed as public functionaries, stated supplies, or who are without pastoral charge, by a line, the former being put first. Clerks of Presbyteries are in Italics. Whenever the post office address differs from the name of the church or place, with which the person referred to is connected, it is added in Italics. The number of Ministers, Licensiates, churches, and communicants is given under the Presbyteries to which they respectively belong. The names of a few ministers, will be found to have been previously inserted under the head of Congregationalists. They may however, in general be distinguished by being connected with congregational churches. C. ch. stands for Congregational church; S. ch. Seceder church; W. ch. Welch church; I. ch. Independent church. In every instance, the state to which a minister belongs is to be understood as being the same with the Presbytery with which he is connected, unless a different state is mentioned.

GENERAL SYNOD OF THE REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH IN NORTH AMERICA.

Meeting, in the city of New York, on the first Wednesday of June, 1829.—Rev.
THOMAS M. STRONG, Stated Clerk, Flatbush, Long Island.

Explanatory note.—The General Synod is divided into two "Particular Synods,"—New York, and Albany; and includes sixteen Classes. The statistical Report made to the General Synod in June, 1828, and from which the following list is prepared, is more than ordinarily valuable, on account of containing the number of families and individuals connected with each congregation, as well as the number of communicants. Some interesting estimates might be made from such statements, relative to the proportion of communicants and other members of congregations, were they generally given by Ecclesiastical Bodies. Pastors of churches are separated from ministers without pastoral charge, by a line. The clerks of the several Classes we have not been able to ascertain.

SYNOD OF THE GERMAN REFORMED CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA.

Explanatory note. The Synod of the German Reformed church contains 7 classes. The last meeting of Synod was held toward the close of Sept. 1828, at Mifflinsburg, Pa. Not having received the minutes of that meeting, we are compelled to omit the names of officers and Delegates to other Ecclesiastical Bodies for the ensuing year, and to take the list of ministers and congregations from the minutes of 1827—which, however, were not printed till 1828. If we are correctly informed, there are two smaller Branches of the German Reformed Church,—the Independent Synod—and the Synod of Ohio, containing, together, probably, thirty ministers, and one hundred congregations. The following extract from the report, on the state of religion, for 1827 contains a summary view which is doubtless applicable, with very few exceptions, at the present time.

“The Synod of the German Reformed Church in these United States, embraces a large portion of her territory, and is composed of seven classes. The churches in our connection are numerous, and chiefly located in the state of Pennsylvania; but some of them are scattered over the states of New York, Ohio, Maryland, Virginia, and North and South Carolina.

"The statistical reports of the several classes, as laid before this Synod, being incomplete, it is impossible for us at present to exhibit the aggregate amount of churches, or of members in full communion in our Zion; we are persuaded we have something like four hundred organized churches, and at least thirty thousand members in our communion, with only about ninety ordained ministers to break to them the bread of life."

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES.

Meeting of General Convention every third year. The next meeting in Philadelphia, on the second Wednesday in August, 1829.

Explanatory note. There are thirteen Dioceses, within each of which an annual convention is held, composed of clergy and lay delegates. In the Eastern Diocese, comprehending the states of Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine, a convention is held in each state, in addition to that which is held for the Diocese.—It is a source of regret that the limits of the Quarterly Register and Journal do not permit us to give the names and residence of the clergy belonging to this denomination. Should our design be approved and patronized, we shall do this hereafter. We must confine ourselves in the present number to the general organization of the Episcopal Church in the United States, including the names of Dioceses, Bishops, Conventions, Secretaries of conventions, times of meeting, and the whole number of clergy belonging to each Diocese, or state mentioned.

ASSOCIATED CALVINISTIC BAPTISTS IN THE UNITED STATES.

Explanatory Note. We were unable to procure full and recent information in regard to the statistics of this Denomination. This remark holds true particularly in reference to the Southern and Western States, where there have been, within two years, large accessions to the Baptist Churches. For these portions of our country, we are indebted to the Philadelphia Tract Magazine, for January 1828. The minutes, from which the Magazine compiled its account, bear the dates of 1825-6-7 and 8. In regard to the Northern States, we have copied in most cases from the minutes of the last meetings of the associations. Only one correspondent is selected within each State.

LUTHERANS.—We have not the means of furnishing our readers with a complete statistical view of this denomination. The General Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in the United States contains about 200 ministers, and 800 Congregations.

CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIANS.—Present number of Ministers and chhs. not known. It has been stated to be sixty.

FREE WILL BAPTISTS.—In 1827, Ministers 242. Licentiates 30. Churches 335. Comm. 12,000.

CHRISTIAN SOCIETY.—From 800 to 1000 churches, are reckoned by this denomination. They are Anti-Calvinistic, and ~~Unitarian~~—Unitarian.

~~Unitarians~~.—A very respectable clergyman of this denomination, in a recent letter addressed to one of the Editors, writes;—"as regards the whole number of ministers and congregations," (Unitarian) "I am accustomed to think that it is not far from about one hundred and fifty, perhaps fewer, perhaps more. I never have made an exact examination, and may not be very nearly right. But do not suppose that I can be very wrong."

UNIVERSALISTS.—"The number of Societies in the United States amounts to between two and three hundred ; and the number of preachers is, at present (1824) about one hundred and forty. The number of regularly organized churches is not certainly known, owing to the great extent of country through which they are scattered, and the want of regular returns. That number however, is supposed to be about sixty." Statement of Rev. David Pickering, minister of the Universalist Chapel, Providence, R. I., in Benedict's History of all Religions, p. 245.

ROMAN CATHOLICS.—It is said that this denomination is rapidly increasing by emigration from Europe, and in other ways. Large sums of money are annually expended by the church of Rome, in the erection of meeting houses, and in the support of priests in America. The number of Catholics in the United States, was estimated, several years ago, at 600,000. If so, the present number is doubtless greater.

~~For~~ For a view of several other denominations, we must refer our readers to No. V. of this work, p. 102. We omit a summary of all the denominations in the present number, in the hope of being able, another year, to make one more complete.

INTELLIGENCE, JAN. 1829.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Concert of Prayer.

Our limits permit us to give only the following extracts from the correspondence of the last quarter. The first is from the Secretary of a Praying Circle of Females connected with one of the Presbyterian Churches, in New York City. The second is from an Association of students in Nassau Hall, Princeton, N. J., who observe the Tuesday after the first Monday of each month, as a Concert of Prayer.

New York, Dec. 21, 1828.

Upon reading your forcible appeal to Christian females to unite prayer with their efforts on behalf of the Education Society, a few members of —— Church agreed to meet on the Tuesday afternoon, after the first Monday in every month, and cast their mite into the treasury of the Lord. Our meeting is increasing in numbers and interest, and some of us can attest, that while we have been supplicating the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon others, our own souls have been refreshed by the Divine presence.

Nassau Hall, Princeton, N. J. Dec. 19, 1828.

Respected Sir.—I beg permission, though an entire stranger to you, to acquaint you with the existence of an association in this College, for the purpose of observing a monthly season of prayer, in accordance with the plan suggested by the Directors of the American Education Society. There is, I believe, but one student connected with this College, who has even a remote connexion with the Society of which you are Secretary. But on the Tuesday evening immediately succeeding the first Monday of the present month, the pious students of this Institution convened, at the suggestion of one who had a slight acquaintance with your operations, and an association was formed, a constitution adopted, and signed by eighteen individuals. Of this number, nearly one half receive no assistance in their education from any charitable fund. The subjects of the several prayers were read from the eleventh Report of the American Education Society previously to their being made. The meeting was one of deep interest and great solemnity, and the importance of its object was apparently appreciated by the members. Indeed,

Sir, it is difficult for us to conceive how any pious student, in a course of preparation for the Gospel ministry, can cherish indifference to this object, and at the same time possess the most essential qualification for the work which he has in prospect, viz. a heart glowing with love to the Redeemer. We were induced to forward this notice, by the hope, that it would afford you some little gratification, and, perhaps encouragement.

In behalf of the Association.

STATE OF RELIGION IN COLLEGES,
viewed in connexion with the Concert of Prayer Feb. 26, 1829.

It is now six years since the last Thursday of Feb. has been observed by Christians, as a season of united and special prayer for our Literary Institutions. About fifteen Colleges, and a large number of Academies have, within that time, enjoyed the reviving influences of God's Holy Spirit. From an accurate examination, we have ascertained, that not less than four hundred and fifty members of our Colleges have been made the subjects of renewing grace within that period. At one Institution sixty individuals were hopefully converted in one revival; at another, in three successive revivals, seventy individuals.

The amount of good, which will be accomplished through time and through eternity, by means of these revivals, is immeasurable. At least four hundred individuals will, in consequence, preach the unsearchable riches of Christ to four hundred thousand immortal beings. Not less than thirty are already in the field; several of whom are rejoicing in the fruits of extensive revivals of religion; while thirty more are pursuing their studies at one Theological Seminary.

But it is a most disastrous and lamentable fact, that during the last year, the special influences of God's Holy Spirit have been almost wholly withdrawn. There has been, probably, within one year an actual decrease of between one hundred and one hundred and fifty pious students at our Colleges.

Now, is not this prospect dark and appalling? Does it not call for deep humiliation and earnest prayer, and conscientious effort on the part of the whole Christian Church? It is the tendency of every thing human to go downward. Nowhere is this more true than in Literary Institutions. From the continual changes which they are undergoing, a vigorous tone of piety may be almost immediately succeeded by languor, and darkness, and death. There is now an unquestionable and rapid approximation towards this fearful result. But shall all which has been done towards rendering our Colleges great sources of evangelical influence be lost? To our Colleges, the Church of Christ and a dying world are looking for help. After all the efforts of Education Societies, and after all the efforts from every other quarter, thousands of congregations, and hundreds of thousands of souls in this country, will live and die without the Gospel. There are now at least two thousand young men in our Colleges, whom the grace of God can qualify to go forth and proclaim the messages of salvation. Let these facts be examined and pondered well. Let them be made the subject of intense and persevering prayer.

Two others were received, by transfer, from Societies recently united with the Am. Ed. Society; and one youth was restored to its patronage, who had been deprived of it for a season; making 47 who have thus been newly placed upon the funds of the Society. The fact which we noticed in the last number of the Journal, that a large part of the new applications are from young men in Academies, is very observable also, the present quarter. The number of beneficiaries in this stage of education has increased five fold in two years.

Treasury overdrawn, six thousand dollars.

Notwithstanding the efforts which have been made to raise funds, the resources of the Society have fallen far short of the expenditures. The debt, for money borrowed, at the last Quarterly Meeting was $3,500. The Directors have been compelled to borrow $2,500 more at their recent meeting to meet the appropriations which amount to seven thousand dollars. The present number of young men, who depend upon the Society and its Branches for the means of obtaining a thorough education for the ministry, is not far from 350. An increase of fifty young men, on an average, will be made to the list every quarter, should the applications multiply no faster than at present.

Permanent and Temporary Scholarships.

Whatever may be the circumstances of other benevolent Societies, experience has abundantly shown that the interests of the Am. Ed. Society can in no way be so certainly and effectually promoted as by means of these foundations. The work of supervision never can be performed as it ought to be, while the time and energies of the Executive Agents are absorbed in devising and executing plans for obtaining funds. That work is now in a measure, necessarily suspended, in consequence of the great and pressing pecuniary wants of the Society. Just so fast as scholarships of either of the above descriptions can be obtained, young men will be placed upon them, and time will be saved for the important service to which we have referred.

Call for help.

Under these circumstances we again send forth our appeal to the Christian Public. A great question is at issue. Shall Pastors and Ministers and Missionaries be provided for the thousands and millions of our destitute fellow men? Shall the pledges which have been given, in the name of the community, whose servants we are, be redeemed? At a time when our hopes are beginning to revive, and the prospect brightens of speedily bringing into the whitening fields a host of devoted labourers — who is willing to check the zeal and efforts of those who are coming forward to engage in the work of the ministry? These pledges must be redeemed. They will be. We announce our wants, not to discourage applicants; —not one, whom the Directors could patronize consistently with the requisitions of the constitution, has ever yet asked in vain, and we trust not one ever will. But there must be an increase of the means of sustaining such applications. For these—friends of learning—friends of humanity—friends of the Lord Jesus Christ, we look to you. Your aid is wanted now. Our country is growing with unexampled rapidity. The world is groaning and travailing in pain for deliverance from the yoke of sin. A bright morning is approaching—and the king of Zion is coming to set up his kingdom upon the earth. To you, is given the privilege of hastening this desirable period, by multiplying the instruments whose exertions are to usher it in.—Can you not, christian reader, by your efforts, if not by your own resources, furnish the means of preparing one such instrument for the service of your Divine Redeemer? If you can, remember, that is a work for which you will be held responsible at the final judgment. If you can do more than this, your responsibility is increased in proportion.

Essex County Ms. Auxiliary.

This Society was originally formed in 1816. Its operations were suspended in 1824. On the 12th of Nov. last, the Society was reorganized at Topsfield, and a constitution adopted. The President is the Hon. Wm. B. Banister; the Secretary, Rev. David T. Kimball of Ipswich, and the Treasurer, Joseph Adams Esq. of Salem. These officers constitute the Board of Directors. A Resident Agent is appointed in each town, who has special oversight of the interests of the Society in the town. The annual meeting of the Society is to be held alternately, within the bounds of the North and South Conferences of the Churches in the County, at such time and place, as the Conferences shall meet, and as may be arranged by the Board of Directors.

Many of the towns in the county have recently been visited by the Secretary of the Parent Society. Rev. Benjamin H. Pitman is also employed, for a few weeks, in the service of the Society. Much interest has been manifested in the cause, and valuable aid rendered.

The following gentlemen have been appointed Resident Agents. West Bradford, Jesse Kimball Esq. E. Bradford, Mr. Nathaniel Ladd. Haverhill, Isaac R. Howe Esq. Ipswich 1st, Mr. Stephen Stanwood. 2d Col. Charles Kimball. Wenham, Mr. Franklin Hadley. Hamilton, Capt. Azor Brown. Rowley, Dea. Joshua Jewett. Byfield, Dea. Putnam Perley. Amesbury 2d. Mr. James Chase. West Newbury, Dea. Josiah Parker. Boxford, Mr. Anstel Stickney. S. Andover, Dea. Mark Newman. West Parish Do. Mr. Peter Smith. Theol. Sem. Samuel Farrar Esq. Marblehead, Hon. Wm. Reed. Salem, Tabernacle ch. Mr. Saml. Archer; South ch. Dea. Daniel Lang; Howard St. Mr. Elijah Porter; Essex, Mr. David Choate. Manchester, Mr. Andrew Brown. Sandy Bay, Mr. Thomas Giles. Other Agents will hereafter be appointed in those towns or parishes which may contribute to the funds of the Auxiliary.

Mr. Matthews has been laboring within the limits of the North Western Branch for several weeks. Gratifying success has attended his efforts, and there is strong reason for believing that a deep and permanent interest for the cause, will be produced throughout the state. A detailed Report of the agency may be expected in a future number.

PRESBYTERIAN BRANCH.

An extended Report of Mr. Hamilton's Agency was published in the N. Y. Observer of Nov. 22, 1828, and also in the Philadelphian. We would, however, gladly copy it, in detail, into the Quarterly Register and Journal, did our limits permit. We must content ourselves, with a brief abstract. The agency was performed, for the Presb. Branch of the A. E. S. in the months of Aug. Sept. and Oct. Pennsylvania was traversed by the Agent from East to West, four times, and once from North to South, making in all a distance of 2100 miles. The congregations on the borders of Maryland, Ohio, Virginia, and Delaware, were also visited. Mr. H. preached fifty times, received donations amounting $102, and subscriptions in twenty different places, amounting to about $1500 a year for seven years, making in the whole $10,000. The names of the Congregations, which subscribed, are the following -- Harrisburg, tempo. Scholarships 2; Gettysburg 2; Carlisle 3; Shippensburg 1; Chambersburg 1; Green Castle 1; Hagerstown, Md. 1; Mercersburg 2; M'Connelstown 1; Union 1; Washington probably 1; Brownsville 1 1-2; Canonsburg 1; Williamsport $16 per ann. Greensburg 1-2; Pittsburg 1 ch. 2; Huntingdon 1; Philadelphia Northern Lib. 2; ch. in 13th street $14 donation; 1st. ch. 1; 5th ch. 5; Ger. Ref. ch. 1-3; L. ch. $20 donation. Wilmington, Del. 1; Milton 1; Bellefonte 1-3; Erie 1-2; Meadville 1; Mercer 1-3; Wheeling, Va. 1; Steubenville, Ohio 1; Newville 2; Rev. C. Hoover, Philadelphia 1. Making every deduction, means may be confidently anticipated for educating from twenty five to thirty young men. Much cordiality of feeling was manifested, and a ready cooperation extended, almost uniformly, wherever the agent called. Important benefits will doubtless result from the dissemination of a knowledge of the principles of the Am. Ed. Soc. among the Literary Institutions and Religious Denominations of the important section of country visited.

WESTERN EDUCATION SOCIETY.

We hope and believe that the earnest and impressive appeal, which is contained in the following Circular of the Board of Directors of this Society, will be effectual. There is no part of the United States, not excepting New England, where more may be done to increase the number of pious and educated ministers, than in this favoured portion of the country. We speak deliberately, and from full conviction on the subject. Ministers, Brethren, and Friends dwelling in this region, you will not suffer the talent which God has given you to lie buried, or to be forgotten and neglected.

After mentioning many facts calculated to show the great and pressing calls for ministerial labour, some of which may be found in the last No. of the Quarterly Journal, the Corresponding Secretary, under date of Jan. 7, 1829, in behalf of the Board of Directors—proceeds:

"In view of these facts, and many others of a similar nature, the Western Education Society has been greatly enlarged in its operations. Since its connexion with the American Education Society, its Directors have held but two quarterly meetings. The first was in September, at which they received thirty two beneficiaries; sixteen on recommendation from Examining Committees, and sixteen transferred from the A. E. S. At their last meeting, which was in December, they received twenty one beneficiaries; nine on recommendation from Examining Committees, and twelve transferred from the A. E. S. This Society has now FIFTY FIVE beneficiaries, whose quarterly appropriations, agreeably to the Society's rules, will amount to eight hundred and ninety eight dollars. A considerable accession to this number is expected at the next meeting of the Board. And here we present the important question—What can be done to meet these necessities, which are increasing so fast, and pressing upon this Society with an overwhelming interest? Shall we say to young men of a promising character that they cannot be supported; and send them back to their farms and work shops? We cannot and dare not take this responsibility, in view of the situation of our country and of the world. Shall we depend on the Parent Society for funds? They forwarded every dollar of the appropriations in September, amounting to $552; and we have been under the necessity of applying to them for above $700 of the appropriations made in the month of December last; while only $120 were paid from our own treasury.

SHALL WE GO ON AT THIS RATE? Shall a Society which extends over thirty counties, embracing the middle and western parts of this state, depend chiefly on the liberality of the eastern states, to educate their pious young men for the ministry? The wealth of this country; the christian enterprise of this country; the expansive views and liberal feelings which Christians here have uniformly manifested, forbid the indulgence of such a thought. The cause is manifest, why our treasury is now without funds. No efforts have been made to raise them; as the Corresponding Secretary of the American Education Society has been expected here for several months, to commence his operations for this particular object. But the pressure of his other avocations now imperiously require that he should spend the winter in the southern and western states. And the business concerns of this Society, which are indispensable, demand so much of the time of its Corresponding Secretary, and require that he should be so often at the centre of operations, that it will be out of his power to visit many places in the course of the present winter for the purpose of raising funds.

"What then can be done? MORE THAN ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS must be appropriated at the quarterly meeting of the Directors, in March next, to meet the necessities of this Society. How easily this sum, and much more, might be raised, by a little exertion in every place, where agents of this Society have been appointed. For the purpose of uniting the efforts of such agents, and of others that may be disposed to take an interest in this object, it is proposed that a collection be taken up for the Education Society, by subscription or otherwise, on the first week in February next; and where it cannot be conveniently made at that time, that it be attended to as soon after as circumstances will admit. May we not hope that every Two Agent; that every Association which has made no returns; and that every Minister of the Gospel who receives this circular, will make an exertion to promote this object? With how much greater ease, and how much more economy, the sum that is needed can be raised in this way, than by employing travelling agents to perform this work? The success of this application will go far in deciding the question, whether such agents must hereafter be employed by this Society.

"Will the brother or sister who is perusing this Circular now look at the facts above stated a second time. Was there ever a period when the object of Education Societies had so urgent a claim on the public? Was there ever a time when this Society had more reason to expect the support of its friends and patrons? Shall the object of this Circular be obtained in your place by the efforts you may make in compliance with this proposal? It is but a few weeks before this collection must be made. Will you now prescribe your plan; draw up your subscription paper, if this is to be the mode adopted; begin to wake up an interest in favour of this object, by circulating the substance of this communication; and fix upon the week and day when your collection shall be taken up? And will you forward the amount collected as soon as may be convenient, to JAMES S. SEYMOUR, Treasurer, at Auburn; to the Subscriber, at Westmoreland; or to some of the Society's Depositaries, noticed in the last annual report? You will thus participate in the peculiar enjoyments, as well as in the trials and services, of those who have laboured by this means, in turning many to righteousness.

JAMES ELLS."

OPERATIONS OF OTHER EDUCATION SOCIETIES.

Eleventh Annual report of the Society for educating pious young men for the Ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Oct. 1828.

This Society was established, in June, 1818, at Washington City. In 1820, the Beneficiaries of the Society were placed under the instruction of the Rev. Reuel Keith, who had been appointed a Professor of Theology at William and Mary's College, Va. In 1823, Prof. Keith removed to Alexandria, Fairfax Co. Va., at a distance of six miles from Washington, where the Episcopal Convention of Va. had established a Theological School. In consequence of this measure, fresh exertions were made in behalf of the Education Society. The receipts of the tenth year were $3,138; of the eleventh, $4,768. The Society has now 28 auxiliaries, located in the States of Va., Md., N. York., S. Carolina, and the District of Columbia. Nine new Beneficiaries were received during the past year, making the whole number, assisted by the Society, thirty eight. The aid which the Society furnishes, is confined to the inhabitants of no territorial limits. The method of assistance is the same as that of the American Education Society, advantageous loans. The sum of $215 was refunded, during the last year. Nineteen, whom the Society have aided, are now laboring in the work of the Ministry. The operations of the Society, though limited, are conducted with energy and wisdom.

Massachusetts Baptist Education Society.

Within the limits of the Baptist Denomination in the United States, there are more than twelve hundred destitute churches. This alarming deficiency of the means of grace, has awakened, as well it might, considerable interest, in different portions of the Baptist church. Several State Education Societies are enlarging their sphere of operations. Among these is the Massachusetts Baptist Education Society. From the fourteenth annual Report, just printed, it appears that some measures are in contemplation for creating a deeper and more general interest in the cause. It is proposed to extend the sphere of the Society's labors over all the New England States. Students from all these states are now assisted by the Society. Fifty three young men were aided, during the last year, twenty six of whom were new Beneficiaries. Eleven are preparing for the Newton Theol. Sem. Eight are members of that institution; eleven are preparing for college; thirteen are members of different colleges, &c. Rev. Henry Jackson, of Charlestown, is Secretary of the Society.

Connecticut Baptist Education Society.

This Society as we learn from the last Annual Report, was formed in 1818, and incorporated in 1820. It has assisted several young men, in a course of regular study. The Society has a permanent fund of $1500. Other sources of income, are the annual subscriptions. All together constitute a disposable fund of $200 per annum. Some more efficient measures are in contemplation to increase the usefulness of the Society. Auxiliaries in each Baptist church in the State are proposed. In their address, the Directors state as arguments, showing the importance of learning in ministers of the Gospel—that there is now among all classes a very general diffusion of knowledge—that duties of immense importance to the church of God are multiplying upon ministers,—and that there is a most urgent call for ministerial labor from destitute churches.—Rev. Barnas Sears, of Hartford, is Cor. Secretary.

Receipts into the Treasuries of the American Education Society and of its Branches from October to Dec. 1828.
